Scope:

International Journal of Advanced Computer Engineering (IJACE) is a scholarly peer-reviewed international scientific journal which is currently published bi-annually. The purpose of this Journal is to provide an open forum to publish original high quality research papers in the areas of computer science, computer engineering, and computer systems to promote the exchange of research ideas, experiences and results. In the near future, it hopes to be recognized by and included in several well-known international indexes, such as COMPENDEX PLUS (EI) and Science Citation Index (SCI). All submitted articles should report original in nature, never previously published research results, experimental or theoretical in any journal or presented in a conference or undergoing such process across the globe. This Journal therefore sincerely invites the submission of technical manuscripts on all the areas of computers. These areas include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Computer Organizations and Architectures
- Operating Systems, Software Systems, and Communication Protocols
- Internet and Web
- Real-time Systems, Embedded Systems, and Distributed Systems
- Genomics and Bioinformatics
- Digital Devices, Computer Components, and Interconnection Networks
- Database Systems
- Specification, Design, Prototyping, and Testing Methods and Tools
- Neural Networks
- Artificial Intelligence, Algorithms, Computational Science
- E-commerce
- Performance, Fault Tolerance, Reliability, Security, and Testability
- Case Studies and Experimental and Theoretical Evaluations
- Wireless Communications
- New and Important Applications and Trends
